

Tracey L. Meares

Walton Hale Hamilton Professor and Faculty Director of the Justice Collaboratory
Yale Law School

Lectures:

- 1) Policing and Its Reform in the 21st Century: Creating a New Narrative of Public Security (policy oriented)
- 2) Policing as a Public Good (more based in history and constitutional law)

Seminar discussions:

I can give shorter versions of (1) and (2) focusing on the value of training to address point (1); theories of legitimacy that motivate point (2); (3) ways of thinking about abolition in the context of reform; and (4) how modern criminal procedure is rooted in attempts to address racial injustice post World War I.

With respect to the last, the following article might be helpful:

https://digitalcommons.law.yale.edu/fss_papers/5174/